

In order to be a tester for an iOS application your device id needs to be registered and associated with an Ad Hoc provisioning profile.

Follow these three steps to find your device id.

Step 1.

Connect your device. In iTunes, select your device in the left hand navigator window. Then click on the Summary tab in the main window. Depending on your version of iTunes, you will see something like this:

Step 2.

If you also see an entry for UUID or device id, great - proceed to the next step. If you do not see a uuid and only a serial number, click on the serial number and it should reveal your device id.

Step 3.

Please copy and paste (no screen shots) send the following information to me:

1. the UUID
2. the device name
3. your email

Your email will only be used to help identify you and your device(s). It will not be used to send you email or be given out to anyone.
